

Expressions of a Cancer Journey

Lilly Oncology on Canvas, an art exhibition honoring the journeys traveled by millions of people affected by cancer worldwide, will be on display at The Mark H. Zangmeister Center from July 21 to August 1.

Lilly Oncology on Canvas is a biennial art competition that invites people diagnosed with any type of cancer, their families, friends, and healthcare providers to express, through art and in narrative, the life-affirming changes that give their cancer journey meaning.

The exhibit will showcase 75 selected pieces of art from the 2006 Oncology on Canvas competition. The artwork is a fusion of hope and healing and provides an opportunity to reflect on individual cancer journeys.
